

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus for balancing a shaft of an aircraft engine preferably includes a plate and the use of standard fasteners. The plate provides mounting for nose cone, and the balancing apparatus may be accessed from the front of the assembled engine.